

Online Staff Health & Safety Training Courses

We offer online training for companies where they can do their essential training, follow ups, updates and forums online. These trainings will be done totally under managers' control and can be branded with your company logo where we will support you for unlimited maintenance, training and 2 years hosting.

Offer also includes:

- Ability to edit courses to tailor to your exact needs
- Add in your own courses with our course builder
- Full access to our library of courses

Why E-Learning?

- Our E-Learning system will enable employers to meet their statutory obligations for training and help to develop a health and safety culture, where staff takes an involvement in health and safety to ensure safe working practices are standard.
- You can access the online health & safety e-learning training system that delivers professional and highly effective employee H&S training at very affordable prices. We have even developed a series of health and safety courses for migrant workers.
- We can provide your organization with your own bespoke online e-learning system for typically up to 50% less than the normal market price - yet with more features and comprehensive reporting tools, making our e-learning system the first choice for health and safety professionals.
- The Learning Management System (LMS) includes many powerful features such as a full reporting system with audit trail, reporting tools and the ability for you to customize content yourself - this even includes creating new modules, questions and answers so you can truly personalize it to your business or location.
- The quality of our online e-learning system is second to none. We are a HSEQ training provider and deliver online health and safety training for many of the world's most quality conscious organizations and companies.
- Our highly acclaimed e-learning health and safety training system is a powerful tool in training new and existing staff on all aspects of workplace health & safety issues. You can see full details of our available courses by going to the e-learning courses page.

- Over 1,500,000 employees are injured at work every year in the UK. In addition, nearly 20,000,000 suffer illness caused by what they do for a living. Preventing these types of incidents must be a priority for employers. Our affordable e-learning system now means you can now help to avoid the potentially disastrous consequences of dealing with an incident.
- To put these issue in perspective you can have your own bespoke online HSEQ training system for less than it costs to hold a couple of induction training sessions!

The benefits of E-Learning

E-Learning offers significant benefits to both the organization and the employee:

- Enables employers to meet their statutory obligations for training
- Very low costs - 50% less than normal market price
- Training can be completed online from work or home
- Continuity in HSEQ training at all times across multi sites
- Includes all HSEQ topics
- Always up to date
- You can track and monitor employee progress and completion
- Reduces chances of costly litigation
- Investment in staff training increases staff retention
- Reduces absenteeism
- Ensures that employees act safely, stay health and are more productive
- Interactive and engaging
- Can be used as refresher training
- Produced according to best updated standards

The online system offers a number of unique functions to ensure that the user gains the most they can from their training experience. The training modules are interactive, informative, exciting to use and completely up-to-date with current health and safety legislation and directives. We have also developed a number of health and safety courses specifically for migrant workers in languages such as Polish.
